OVERVIEW: AN MTSS APPROACH FOR SOCIAL AND EMOTIONAL LEARNING

The SEL Strategies and Interventions Package helps you make the most of your SEL investment by offering actionable data-driven next steps to support students' social and emotional growth. It accomplishes this through an MTSS approach ensuring that each student receives the level of support they need to be successful. Data-Driven Recommendations immediately provides social and emotional strategies recommendations according to students' full DESSA assessment results. Universal SEL Strategies provide direct instruction for Tier 1 or Tier 2 groups. Tier 2 Intervention Programs offer targeted support for small groups that need intensive competency building. SEL Strategies Tracking allows educators to organize and track strategies for optimal implementation.

GETTING SUPPORT

Additional resources for all users in the Aperture System include self-paced courses, short on-demand videos, live webinars, quick-start guides, FAQs, and other helpful documents and guides. To access all of our learning options and choose the best path for you, log in to your Aperture System account and click the Academy tab.

You can also access our 24/7 Support Portal in your account by clicking on the  question mark icon in the upper right-hand corner of the dashboard. In the Support Portal, type the name of the resource you are looking for into the search bar or scroll through the suggested resources. To contact our Support Team, click the Submit A Request button on the top right to submit a ticket.

DATA-DRIVEN RECOMMENDATIONS

5 DATA-DRIVEN RECOMMENDATIONS WILL PROVIDE STRATEGIES AND INTERVENTIONS

Data-Driven Recommendations will provide 3 SEL strategies based on your students' DESSA data results.

The first strategy is based on the group's highest scoring competency.

The second and third recommended SEL Strategies are based on your students' opportunities for growth.

Data-Driven Recommendations will identify one Tier 2 intervention program.

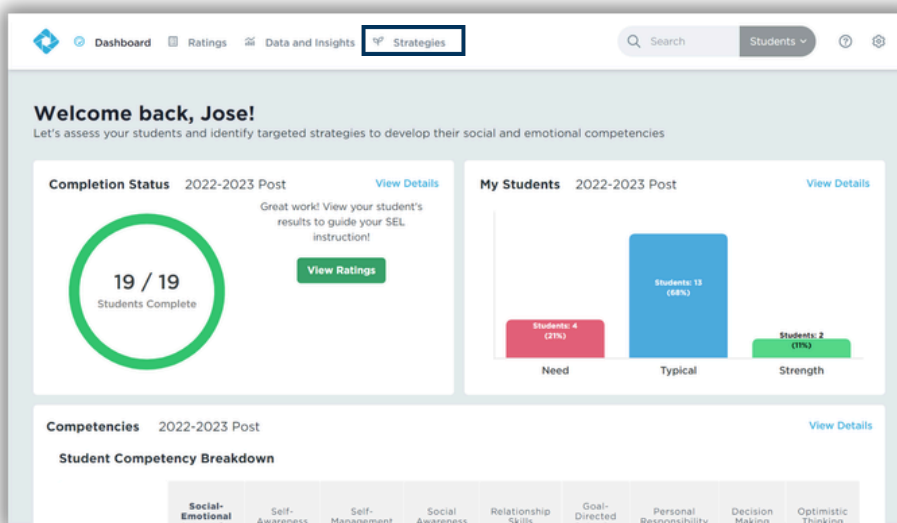

You can view and begin the recommended Tier 2 intervention program from the Data-Driven Recommendations page.

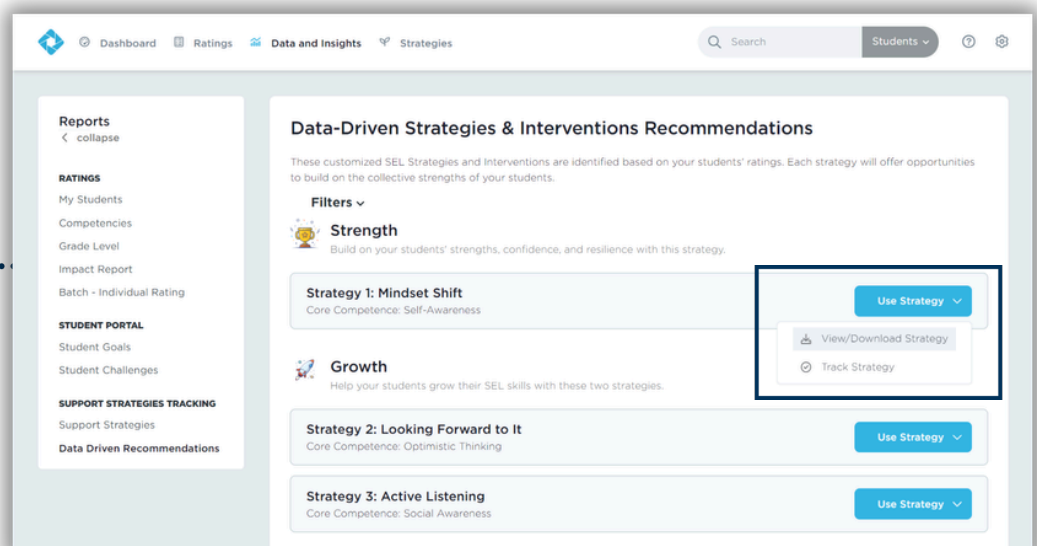

SEL STRATEGIES

1 THERE ARE TWO WAYS YOU CAN ACCESS THE SEL STRATEGIES

You can access the SEL strategies directly from the Strategies tab on your dashboard.

You can view, track, and download SEL strategies from Data-Driven Recommendations.

WARMING UP WITH STRENGTHS

Optimistic Thinking

Middle School

This activity gives all students the opportunity to experience success by practicing a skill they have mastered. Although this strategy can be done with the whole class, it is especially important for students who struggle.

Duration: Less than 5 minutes.

Activity Overview

Self-talk, also known as inner speech, is the internal dialogue that we have with ourselves during different situations. When the inner dialogue is positive, it can encourage us to continue working through difficult tasks, stay on track with responsibilities, support emotional regulation, and navigate challenging social situations. In this activity, students identify examples of how to intentionally use positive self-talk, learn new examples of self-talk, and plan for times in the future to intentionally use self-talk.

Implementation Considerations

Italicized text is recommended language to lead the conversation or activity with your students.

This activity works best if it is individualized. Check in with students to encourage updating their warm-up activity as they develop new skills.

Why this Works

SMALL SUCCESSES CAN BUILD RESILIENCE

Experiencing success helps students develop positive emotions about learning and increases engagement.¹ Experiencing success is especially important for students who struggle academically.

Purpose

- Ensure that every student has the opportunity to feel successful as a learner.
- Ease students into the class period with a warm-up activity.

Lesson One: Start with Strengths 1/4

SEAD Lesson One Guide

Social Emotional and Academic Development Program | Lesson 1 Guide

Lesson One Guide

Start With Strengths

In this lesson, students will start with a class greeting to help build community. Then, they will identify their strengths and reflect on how their strengths can be used to help them learn.

Step 1. Class Greeting

Every lesson starts with a class greeting that serves as a warm-up activity. Class greetings help your students build community and get more comfortable working together. For today's greeting, ask students to share their names (if they don't already know each other), and something about themselves (like their favorite food, favorite game, or favorite color), and perhaps finish with how they're feeling today. You want this to be easy for them. You can model this by starting for the class. You might say something like:

Hi everyone! I'm Ms. Mellard. My favorite food is ice cream and I'm feeling excited and also a little nervous.

REFLECTING AND THINKING AHEAD

1 ENGAGE IN A DATA-REVIEW PROCESS

Because the Strategies and Interventions Package offers data-driven next steps to support students' social and emotional growth, here are a few considerations for engaging in a data-review process:

- ☐ After each rating window, access and review your data before acting on it to implement strategies and interventions.
- ☐ Use your students' data to guide instructional decisions including interventions and preventative practices.
- ☐ Use the various reports in the Aperture System to monitor progress throughout the school year.

2 GOAL SETTING QUESTIONS BASED ON DESSA DATA

In the Guide to Data-Driven Student Success there are recommended questions to guide discussion around continuous improvement of SEL programming and assessment processes, based on the DESSA results:

- ☐ What are the decision criteria to guide movement in and out of targeted supports for students?
- ☐ Does the data indicate equitable growth and outcomes for students from different racial/ethnic groups?
- ☐ Have school staff received the professional development and resources needed to implement high-quality targeted SEL programs?
- ☐ Are the targeted supports aligned with the needs of the students and with the goals of the universal program?
